The story is about Jenny, a 23 year old woman, who is hired to play housekeeper/typist to a 35 year old ranch man in Texas named Everett. Everett hates city women because he was disillusioned by a past love, but he falls for Jenny. Unknowingly to Everett, Jenny used to be a New York City top interior designer before coming to Texas and embodies everything which he despises in a woman. Diana Palmer's writing style is well-rounded and flowing. I never felt lost or bored. The story is funny, sentimental, and the situations are real life ones. But sometimes some of the lines were a little corny. I also think that Everett crossed the line to the point of being cruel and hateful. In a way, I understand why he would feel anger towards her. I applauded Jenny for taking a stand against him and making him grovel at her feet. I think it would have been better if the story had been longer only so that Everett would have had enough time to make it up to Jenny for his stupidity. I love stories of Texas ranches and strong men and women. I highly recommend this book and definitely look forward to reading more of Diana Palmer's books, eagerly. 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Another good one by Palmer. Von Ein Kunde I really liked this story. If you like Diana Palmer books, you'll love it. Jenny and Rett have problems (of course) because his ranch isn't doing very well and then he finds out she is a big city woman who can make a lot more money than him. But it all works out in the end (of course)!
