Nett! Von CANett geschrieben, aber zwischendurch gibt es Lcken und zeitweise wurden auch er und sie verwechselt. Ansonsten aber eine nette kleine Geschichte für einen ruhigen Abend.

Kurzbeschreibung Phil has always made Christina's life hell. His remarks about her curvy body have always hurt. The worst thing is he is her brother's best friend. However when the two of them end up stranded together in a cabin high in the mountains, they realise their animosity is based on a lie. When the air is cleared Christina is forced to acknowledge her crush on Phil. Soon the heat rises between them as they learn they are made for each other. Will their relationship last though once they leave the sanctuary of the cabin? This 15,000 word short story is for adults only. Excerpt: Surely, he would not be pushing her for an answer if he did not want her. He could have let the whole thing go. That bought another more terrifying thought into her head. What if she admitted her feelings for him? And they acted on them. She had never been with a man. Whilst Phil had slept with so many women, he must have lost count. Christina. Tell me, he whispered. Yes. She could feel herself trembling even though her body felt feverishly hot. Phil let out a long breath as though he had been holding it for minutes. Christina began to wonder if she had done the right thing, but she could not have lied to him. She steeled herself for the rejection she knew would follow. I dont want to hurt you, Christina. If you say the word, I will let this go and wont say a word to anyone. But if you want me, I would really like to take you to bed right now. Its something I have wanted to do ever since that night you walked in on me. Her head spun. She could not quite comprehend his words. Surely, this was one of his jokes, but as she looked into his eyes, she could not see any hint of amusement. He was deadly serious. Yes, please. She reached up and threaded her hands around his neck. Very slowly, he lowered his head and their lips met for the first time. Kurzbeschreibung Phil has always made Christina's life hell. His remarks about her curvy body have always hurt.
